Oracle Designer/2000

Generate Client/Server Applications

Generate Web Applications

Designer/2000 enables you to define your application visually rather than writing thousands of lines of procedural code. Then, at the touch of a button, you can generate either a Web or a client/server application — or both. So you don't have to choose between supporting your existing client/server users or moving ahead to the Web. No other toolset can do this.
